The Star and Sentinel.

THE GOLDEN SIDE.

There is many a rose in the road of life,
If we would only stop and take it;
And many a tone from the better land,
If the querulous heart would make it;
To the sunny soul that is full of hope,
And whose beautiful trust ne'er faileth,
The grass is green and the flowers are bright
Though the Winter storm prevaileth.

Better to hope, though the clouds hang low,
And to keep the eyes still lifted;
For the sweet blue sky will still peer through,
When the ominous clouds are rifted!
There was never a night without a day,
Or an evening without a morning;
And the darkest hour, as the proverb goes,
Is the hour before the dawning.

There is many a gem in the path of life,
Which we pass in our idle pleasure,
That is richer far than the jeweled crown,
Or the miser's hoarded treasure;
It may be the love of a little child,
Or a mother's prayers to Heaven,
Or only a beggar's grateful thanks
For a cup of water given.

Better to weave in the web of life
A bright and golden filling,
And to do God's will with a ready heart,
And hands that are ready and willing,
Than to snap the delicate minute threads
Of our curious lives asunder;
And then blame Heaven for the tangled ends,
And sit and grieve and wonder.

THE MERCHANT'S WIFE.

A STORY OF LIFE'S VICISSITUDES.

A handsome barouche with a splendid pair of horses, harness and trappings all of equal style, waited at the open door of a mansion in a fashionable square at the west end of London. A young, beautiful and richly-attired lady descended the steps, accompanied by a gentleman, who handed her into her seat: already a lovely boy of about four years old was placed there.

"Come with us, papa," he cried, "this once."

"Do, Arthur," echoed the young mother, "Max pleads for us."

"Dear Blanche, I am overwhelmed with business this morning. But you will not be alone. Are you not going to take up Laura and Fanny Oliphant? There, go and enjoy yourselves; we shall meet at dinner."

He pressed the little hand resting on the carriage door, and she kissed her's in return to their parting salutations, as the spirited horses, that had been pawing the ground impatiently, dashed off at full speed.

Arrived at the Oliphants, Mrs. Devonport found her cousins ready. There was a flower show and musical festival at Sydenham, and the Crystal Palace, so worthy of that name, would be attended by the gay votaries of fashion and pleasure. Some came there on this fair summer's day to view the rare and choice flowers, and others to listen to fine music, many to behold the world's wonders, the treasureies of art and science collected in the far-famed palace, but many more to meet with friends, or to exhibit their elegant toilettes, and discuss the different events then on the tapis in London.

Laura and Fanny Oliphant had lingered among the flowers; whether induced to remain by the sweet perfumes and glowing colors, or by the appearance of two dashing young guardsmen of their acquaintance who usually hunted in couples, the reader must decide. Mrs. Devonport, fatigued with wandering up and down the gay crowd, after appointing a place of meeting with her cousins, left them, and with her young son seated herself to hear the music of a new opera. His little hands were filled with expensive toys she had bought him.

"What a beautiful child!" was the general remark of strangers, as they passed him by; and beautiful he looked in his white embroidered cashmere dress and dark blue sash across one shoulder, forming a contrast to the curls that fell over it like a shower of gold, a velvet cap the color of his sash, whose single plume was fastened by a rich jewel.

Immediately behind Mrs. Devonport were seated two gentlemen, apparently more interested in each other's conversation than in the fine strains from the orchestra. Between pauses in the music, Blanche overheard (an unwilling listener) a portion of their conversation.

"And so the great house of Devonport & Co. is likely to become bankrupt."

"You greatly astonish me; I thought Devonport one of our wealthiest merchants."

"I can only say," replied the first speaker, "that a few days since a bill to a heavy amount was returned to me; and on making inquiries this morning in the city, from a friend who is usually au fait in such matters, I have no doubt their liabilities will be enormous. And then they live in such an expensive style—that little wife of Devonport's might be an Eastern princes."

Poor Blanche! She could have exclaimed with Beatrice, "What fire is in mine ears—can this be true?" She durst not leave the spot, fearing to attract their notice. At length, after what appeared to her an incalculable space of time, little Max, who vainly endeavored to attract his mother's attention, began to cry. She rose, and taking her child's hand moved away. Hastening through the throng, she sought her young cousins.

"Blanche, what ails you? How pale you look!" said Laura.

"I have a sudden headache, dear, (heartache would have been more truthful). The heat and noise are insupportable. But I will not take you away; the carriage shall return, and these gentlemen will escort you back to town."

One of the young officers found Mrs. Devonport's carriage, and conducted her to it. She bowed her thanks. "Home," she just found voice to utter to the liveried servant, who stood waiting her commands; then, as they drove off, she sank back and burst into tears.

What a change! It was like one awakening from a dream, and what a rude awakening! Only a few hours since she had left a splendid abode, brilliant and happy; the very sunbeams seemed to dance before her path, a coleur de rose had tinted with its unreal hues life and life's scenes—now the veil was withdrawn, and what was revealed but present and prospective misery?

Blanche Devonport had been brought up tenderly—the darling of a fond father and an over-indulgent mother; then, after her marriage, every gift wealth could bestow was lavished upon her by a kind husband. But though apparently the spoiled child of fortune, she had a noble, high-principled mind, that prosperity could not harm nor adversity crush. Those bitter tears fell, not because she beheld passing away wealth and its enjoyments, but that her husband's name should be accounted dishonored.

By the time Blanche reached her home, she had resolved in her own mind what course to pursue. The child had fallen asleep, and was taken up stairs to his nurse. Mrs. Devonport was gratified to discover that her own maid, not expecting their return for several hours, had gone out to spend the afternoon. She locked the room door, threw off the bonnet covered with its snowy plumes, the delicate peach-colored dress trimmed with rich and expensive lace, laid aside the elegant little gold watch and chain, with their costly appendages, then selected a black silk dress, a simple lace collar and cuffs; would have even brushed straight the beautiful hair, almost the golden hue of her child's—but no, it absolutely would curl and wave as before. She sat down a few minutes to collect her scattered thoughts, for the first time in her existence about to confront the stern realities of life—but what matter?—she had her husband and her child left her. At length rising and ringing the bell, she inquired if Mr. Devonport had returned. He had, and was with Mr. Morton, his solicitor, in the library. Blanche felt a little nervous, but calmly went down stairs, then through a suite of splendid apartments to the library. Her hand was on the handle of the door, gently opening it, when she heard her husband's voice:

"Morton, I will make any sacrifice; buy time for payment at any price—if I can only keep these embarrassments from my wife's knowledge."

His wife entered the room.

"Dear Arthur, I know all—and now no further sacrifice must be made. Mr. Morton, as my husband's friend, I beg you will explain to me the most honorable course to ourselves—the most just to those to whom money is due."

Devonport was lost in amazement: he rose and clasped her in his arms.

"My brave little wife! Fool and coward that I have been! I did not do you justice. There, Morton, have your own way now.—Confound it, but I am happier than before I owned a shilling."

And the poor fellow brushed away a tear from his eyes.

The lawyer then briefly explained to Blanche that, in consequence of the failure of a large firm abroad, her husband was on the verge of bankruptcy; that he had advised meeting the approaching crisis by lessening their expenses, and, with Mr. Devonport's assistance, he felt confident of ultimately arranging matters satisfactorily. Then in reply to his questions as to how she obtained her information, Blanche detailed the conversation in the Crystal Palace, and inquired the name of the gentleman to whom they were indebted—yes, she said, indebted for her knowledge of these affairs—for he should be reimbursed by the sale of every jewel she possessed, and the money enclosed in a note, with the compliments of the "Eastern Princess;" and then poor Blanche began to laugh hysterically, and asked for a glass of water.

"My dear child," cried Arthur, "how inconsiderate I have been! You have taken nothing since breakfast." He rang the bell, ordered dinner to be hastened, and would not allow another word to be spoken on business until they returned to the library, when all three sat down to discuss deliberately how, in the most prudent manner, they might weather the storm.

The London season being at its height, the house of the Devonports was easily rented. A cottage in an unfashionable suburban district was taken, and thither they conveyed sufficient from their former residence to furnish it simply yet elegantly. But the chief part of the costly and valuable articles in the house were sold, as well as the horses and carriages.

Nearly all the servants were paid and dismissed—the lady who condescended to act as nurse, and of whom Blanche stood slightly in awe, among the number; a young housemaid, who was a great favorite with Max, begged to remain, and was retained to supply her place; the lady's maid was dispensed with, as Nelly would attend upon Mrs. Devonport also; she, with two others, formed the entire establishment.

Belgravia looked on and wondered; then in a few days the Devonports were forgotten. But if the creditors were surprised, they were also gratified, for within a year all was paid in full. Mr. Devonport, who probably had been too reliant on others, now attended closely to business, and worked early and late, stimulated to exertion by the heroic conduct of his wife.

One morning about six months after the event already related, a gentleman was announced. The delicate tint on Blanche Devonport's cheek changed to a deep color, as she read the name of Mr. Charles Stanley on his card.

"Pardon my intrusion, Mrs. Devonport," said he, on entering, "but I only recently returned from a tour abroad, and have now called to apologize for the rude remarks I was guilty of uttering, when seated near you, one memorable day last summer. On your rising, my friends recognized you, and I felt deeply concerned for the pain I must have caused you. I have seen your husband's solicitor, and understand how nobly you acted. And now allow me to leave this money (laying down a pile of notes) in Mrs. Devonport's hands, until perfectly convenient for him to repay me."

"Indeed, Mr. Stanly," replied Blanche, recovering from his embarrassment, "you little know the service you have rendered us. As to this money, I thank you greatly, but cannot take it."

"Well, then, I shall call upon Mr. Devonport, at his warehouse; but pray give me leave renew my visit at some other day."

Blanche assured him he would be most welcome; and Mr. Stanley took his leave, determined in some manner to benefit the Devonports.

It is now the end of a long, cold winter, and in the early spring Charles Stanley was enabled to carry out his purpose. He owned a pretty little villa, with a few acres of land, about ten miles distant from London, situated in a beautiful country, and near a railroad station. At this time a fast friendship had sprung up between the former debtor and creditor; and one day, hearing Blanche lament for her child's sake the want of pure air, he turned to her husband, saying: "I know the very spot that would suit you, to be rented by a friend of mine. He prefers to reside in town, but would like it occupied by a small family. It is, too, remarkable cheap."

He then named so low a sum, that Devonport was induced to accompany him to look at it; and in a few weeks they were comfortably settled in their new home.

Blanche had the gratification of seeing her little Max bright and blooming as formerly; and when at last she discovered the name of the real landlord, she appreciated the delicate manner in which he was determined to serve them—the gardens of fruit and flowers, the pleasant terraces, and the shady groves were more prized by her than her former luxury.

Their summer friend had of course flown with the change of fortune, but a few tried and valued ones remained. The Oliphants had never deserted them, and Charley Stanley, who was a constant guest, at length made an offer to Laura. She, rather proud of her conquest, accepted him, but professed to believe he only asked her that he might become related to her cousin Blanche.

The Devonports never returned to the fashionable world they left—"its gold and all its broidered equipage" having, by sad experience, lost all charm in their eyes. But, if not moving in the same rank as formerly, they fully regain the honorable name which was only dimmed for a time but never lost.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I would recommend the formation of a Young Men's Christian Association as a likely means of alleviating the want felt in New Oxford of some institution where young men could be induced to spend their leisure in a more profitable way than is customary at present; and although I would prefer this, yet, should this not meet with favor by the majority of the young men, I would name another project, which I had the honor to meet with while absent from home—a society known as the "Mutual Improvement Society," which had for its object the improvement and amusement of clerks and others employed during the day, but having opportunities of spending their evenings in whatever manner, fancy or inclination dictated; and the remarkable success that attended its operations induces me to commend it to the attention of your many readers. The plan was this:—One evening in each week a meeting was held of the members, at which meeting a certain number of readings, recitations, or essays, were delivered, each member having the privilege of criticising any reading, recitation, or essay that was brought forward, and the reader, elocutionist, or essayist replying to the criticisms, after such as wished to remark upon his performance had concluded. The advantages of such a system are obvious. A friendly rivalry is soon promoted between the members, and on each succeeding meeting a decided improvement may be traced in the productions of the essayists and the delivery of the elocutionists. So much for the improvement part of the question. On the other hand, the amusement afforded by a selection of recitations and essays is most genial. Recitations from Ingoldsby, Hood, Thackeray, and the other humorists, never failed to produce laughter of the most unbounded nature; and the essays—humorous and satirical—always obtained their full share of applause. The readings from Shakspeare, Milton, Scott, Longfellow, and the other writers of a more serious class of poetry, were also equally successful; and the knowledge of the writings of such men always engenders in the minds of the young a taste and sentiment that are very beneficial to them in their future career. Debates on all the subjects of the day were entered into with interest and avidity by its members; although, of course, such were not attempted in the younger days of the society, however popular and interesting they might have been to precocious aspirants for oracular fame.

Let a number of young men form themselves into an institution, having for its object the discussion of matters of a literary or scientific nature, that would be acceptable to their inclinations, and it would, no doubt, be a source of much enjoyment and improvement. Try it, young men of New Oxford, and elsewhere. J. S. G.

THE DUTCHMAN'S TRICK.—While a Dutchman was passing through a city in Vermont a Yankee came up to him and said:

"Shon, if you treat me to a cigar, I will learn you a trick."

Shon agreed. Yankee then placed his hands against the fence, and told him to strike it as hard as he could. Shon, not thinking any harm could befall him by doing so, struck a blacksmith's blow, but instead of hitting Yank's hand, the latter jerking it away, poor Shon struck the fence board knocking it off.

"Mien Gott in Himmel!" cried Shon, "what makes you foolish? I knocked my hand off clean up the elbow! O! socker blitz! my poor frau, what will she say?"

Poor Sohn was bound to have revenge; so one day, as he was passing through a field, espied a man. Going up to him he said:

"Mynheer, I show you a little joke for noding."

As there was no fence or tree near, Shon put his hand against his mouth, and said:

"Strike yust ast as hard as you can."

Mynheer struck, and Shon pulled away his hand and received the blow on his mouth and was knocked down. Shon jumped up, his mouth bleeding, and commenced dancing with pain.

"Sherusalem! A thousand teyfels take this country. I goes back to Holland on the first train."

A WISE CHOICE.—A little girl having one day read to her teacher the first twelve verses of fifth chapter of the Gospel by Matthew, he asked her to stop and tell him which of these holy tempers, said by our Lord to be blessed, she should most like to have. She paused a little, and then said with a modest smile, "I would rather be pure in heart." Her teacher asked her why she chose this above all the rest. "Sir," she said, "if I had a pure heart I should have all the other graces spoken of in the chapter."

A LITTLE girl who was walking with her mother, was temped by the sight of a basket of oranges exposed for sale, and quietly took one; but afterwards, stricken by conscience, returned it. On her return home she was discovered in tears, and being asked the cause of her sorrow, replied, sobbing: "Mamma, I haven't broke any of the commandments, but I have cracked one a little."

A SCOTCHMAN went to a lawyer once for advice, and detailed the circumstances of the case. "Have you told me the facts precisely as they occurred?" said the lawyer.—"Oh! ay, sir," rejoined he. "I thought it best to tell ye the plain truth; ye can put the lies in yourself."

A YOUNG lady who was reading a novel, was asked by a gentleman how she liked the style.

"The style—the style!" was the answer, "oh, sir, I've not come to that yet!"

"You seem to walk more erect than usual, my dear sir."

"Yes, I have been straightened by circumstances."

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S THEATRE.

He owns a theatre which cost, it is said, $200,000, and which has yielded a large revenue. It is a well-built edifice, nearly as large as the Boston theatre, with parquette and circle, dress circle, family circle, and gallery. Gentiles are consigned to the dress circle, though Saints also sit there. Climbing a narrow stairway we find ourselves in the dress circle, occupying a front seat, giving us a good position to study the audience. We are not there to see the play but the people. The curtain is still down and the audience are taking their seats. The parqutte is arranged with slips like those in a church. At the right hand side in the parquette circle is Brigham's family pew—distinguished from all other seats by its red plush or damask upholstery. In the right hand aisle of the parquette is a rocking-chair which Brigham sometimes occupies when he wishes to be on a familiar footing with the Saints. The light in the building is rather dim, gas not having been introduced to Salt Lake coal oil being used instead, but there is light enough for us to study the countenances of those around us. On seats adjoining ours are two young girls, fresh, fair, rosy-cheeked, accompanied by a young man well dressed—Gentiles, I judge, from a remark dropped now and then. At our right hand is a woman with a baby in her arms, three other children by her side. Beyond her another woman with a baby and a great strapping fellow with red whiskers by her side. Behind us are three roystering fellows from the mines of Montana, ogling the girls in the parquette. They are Gentile wolves. Elder Williams cautioned the girls last Sunday to beware of those who came in sheep's clothing to lead them away from the Church and down to perdition. These wolves do sometimes carry off the fairest lambs of the flock. Some of the girls prefer the undivided love of a hardy, good-looking young Gentile to the fortieth or fiftieth part of a withered old Apostle. Two seats distant is another baby. The mother is wrinkled and care worn. We can see lines of care and suffering across her forehead and in her sunken cheeks, as if Time had been turning deep furrows and his plough-share had gone down into the subsoil and cut the heart-strings. Not hers alone. We see the same joyless cast of countenance on every female face. Artists, who with pen and pencil paint characters—who can read the joys and sorrows of life in the lines of human face—should come to Salt Lake City. They would find it one vast studio—every woman a subject.—"Dead Affections" would be an appropriate title to their pictures. Stifled, rather.—These women never have known what it is to love or to be loved. They know only sacrifice. They are slaves—in bondage to the church and to the devil at the same time. They are ground to powder between two mighty millstones—the upper one a religious idea, the lower one the lewdness and lust of hard-harted men. Heaven and hell together are brought into action, crushing out human affections and the highest and holiest instincts of the soul. The priests of Buddha, in one of their delineations of the damned, have accurately portrayed the condition of these women of Salt Lake. I remember a scene in a temple at Canton—a mill in which human souls were ground up—a slow, steady turning of the stone. The soul went in head-foremost. Down below there was trickling stream of blood and brains. It is so here. Intellect, joy, happiness, hope, peace, brains, and hearts are ground slowly out in this infernal mill! But there is the man who runs the mill—the head of the Church—president and revelator—in the private box by the side of the stage. He is portly, his hair is nicely brushed. He wears a white vest, black broadcloth coat, kid gloves, puts an opera-glass to his eyes and looks over to the gallery containing us Gentiles to see who is there. He has a broad forehead, large nose, and whiskers turning white. Ability, decision, duplicity, shrewdness, cunning, the good and bad elements of character, are plainly marked in his countenance. Apostle Wells, a tall, thin, spare man, nearly as old as Brigham, is by his side. In Brigham's family circle we see two of his concubines, and twenty-two of his children, all but two of them girls. One of the women is past the prime of life, plain countenance, plainly dressed. She is sad—sad when others laugh. The play is the "Somnambulist," but the comic scenes which set the crowd-a-laughing bring no smile to her face. At the end of the seat is one of the favorite concubines, a woman of thirty, pale, thoughtful, with an intellectual cast of countenance, with a book in hand which she reads between the scenes. She has large, lustrous eyes, dark brown hair, jewels on her fingers, and a mother-of-pearl opera-glass in her hand. She is elegantly dressed—wears a costly fine cape. Did I not know that they were Brigham's concubines, I should set them down as teachers of a girls' boarding-school, who had come with their classes to enjoy the evening. It is a motley audience—saints, sinners, and Indians. Far up in the gallery I see three of the Ute tribe, in moccasins and blanket, gazing with imperturbable gravity upon the scene.—Brigham looks upon the audience most of the time—turning his attention to the stage only when something especially attractive or laughable occurs. He talks with Brother Wells, takes a knife from his pocket, pares an apple, which he slowly munches. He has the appearance of a man not well acquainted with the usages of good society, but who is well off in the world, independent of everybody, and who for the remainder of his life is going to take things easy, and have everything his own way.

RAILROAD COMBINATION.—The Pennsylvania Central railroad company has leased the Columbus, Chicago and Indiana Central railroad, for a term of ninety-nine years, running from Columbus to Chicago. As the Pennsylvania Company alreay controls the roads between Pittsburg and Columbus, this lease, with their own road through the State of Pennsylvania, gives them an unbroken line of rail from Philadelphia, and by the New Jersey Central road, from New York to Chicago. Other arrangements nearly perfected will carry the line to St. Louis. The number of miles of the road thus united in the hands of a single company will be not far from two thousand.

MR. Thomas Dutton, of Delaware county, Pennsylvania, who celebrated his 100th birthday last Tuesday, is said to be the only person living who heard the firing of the cannon in Philadelphia on the 4th of July 1776. He voted for Washington and for Grant, and at every intervening Presidential election. He stands more than six feet in height, but is quite infirm.

THE gas issuing from rock crevices on the western line of Pennsylvania, along the Ohio River, has been ignited by some of the inhabitants, and travelers passing at night see huge flames jetting out here and there. The effect is said to be both sublime and startling. The superstitious people of the surrounding country think the flames the beginning of the final conflagration.

WE live in an age of wonders. Freight for Salt Lake is now sent from New York city to the end of the Pacific Railroad without change of cars—2600 miles. New York cars are seen west of the Rocky Mountains. We have now the longest line of continuous railroad track in the world.

JOHN Sullivan, [illegible] the Eagle Sugar Refinery, [illegible] Boston, fell into a vat of boiling sugar on Monday evening. His skin peeled off from his waist to his neck, and he is not expected to recover.

The Star & Sentinel.

Friday, Feb. 19, 1869.

Advertisers and others interested will bear in mind that the regular circulation of the "STAR AND SENTINEL" is much larger than that of any other paper published in the County, being read weekly by not less than 11,000 persons.

NOT one of the Republican Senators who voted against the impeachment of Andrew Johnson has as yet been able to secure a re-election.

THE political campaign of 1869 will open with the following State elections: New Hampshire, March 9; Connecticut, April 4; Rhode Island, April 7. A Governor is to be chosen in each.

AT the charter election in Binghamton, New York, Tuesday, the Republicans elected their candidate for Mayor by about three hundred gain over last year's vote, when the Democratic candidate was elected.

MAYOR HALL, of New York, testified before the Congressional Committee on Election Frauds a few days since that in his opinion, and from experience, there is not an honest politician in New York. He ought to know.

THE Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has agreed to report favorably upon the English Naturalization treaty. The Committee are understood to be six against one for the Alabama treaty, the minority being Mr. Bayard, of Delaware.

IN THE U. S. District Court, at Richmond, a nolle prosequi was entered in the treason cases of Davis, Lee, Breckinridge, Hampton, Longstreet, Wise, Early and others, and the sureties of Davis were discharged from their responsibility.

THE Democratic Traitors are all coming home, since the issue of Johnson's amnesty Proclamation. JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE arrived in Baltimore last Saturday. He is staying with his brother-in-law, Rev. Mr. Bullock, of that city. The secessionists were jubilant on his return, and desirous of giving him a grand ovation.

IT IS now settled that there will be an inauguration ball, to be held in the extension of the Treasury building, and the preparations being made indicate a grand affair. The price of tickets is fixed at $10. There are to be half a dozen military bands. The rooms set apart for the ball will afford space for 800 dancers on the floor at one time. It is not yet known whether Gen. GRANT will attend.

SENATOR DOOLITTLE is going to locate in New York city, where he will find his affinity in politics. The pure air of Wisconsin is not adapted to the growth of conservatism—still less as a home for political infidelity. New York city has become a general House of Refuge for Copperhead saints and sinners, and accordingly we find apostate Republicans gravitating thither.—Cowan should follow Doolittle.

THE examination of witnesses in the case of Hon. Leonard Myers, Republican, vs. Dr. John Moffets, Democrat, in the Third (Phil'a.) Congressional district, preliminary to a formal contest, has been closed. Mr. Myers proved during the examination over seven hundred fraudulent votes as having been polled for Dr. Moffett.—The latter proved that but twenty-five had been cast for Mr. Myers. The majority of Moffett was less than two hundred, and hence Mr. Myers will obtain the seat to which he was chosen by over five hundred majority.

GEN. GRANT is reported to have taken square ground in favor of impartial suffrage. He approves of the New Constitutional amendment. He maintains, what everybody must admit, that the principle of manhood suffrage is right, in itself, and holds that as we have through the reconstruction acts imposed negro suffrage on the Southern States, it is only fair that the Northern States should give the ballot to their own colored citizens. He thought the question at issue had better be disposed of as soon as possible, so as to take a disturbing element out of our affairs.

ONE of our regular Advertising Agents sends several "locals," to appear in this paper, eulogistic of BRICK POMEROY'S new paper, the "New York Democrat." We wish it distinctly understood that these "locals" are paid for, the same as other advertisements. We have frequently given our readers to understand what we think of POMEROY'S lucubrations.—If, notwithstanding, any of them want pure unadulterated Copperheadism, and "red-hot" at that, they can get it by taking the Democrat.

ON Monday, in the Supreme Court of the United States, Chief Justice Chase delivered the opinion of the Court in the case of Bronson's executors against Rhodes, being one of the cases recently argued before the Court on an appeal from the Court of Appeals for the State of New York. The opinion of a majority of the Court is that contracts made payable in coin can be specifically enforced, and cannot be satisfied by legal tender notes. Mr. Justice MILLER dissented. This decision does not involve the general question of the constitutionality of the Legal Tender act, but affirms the integrity of the contracts made prior to that legislation by Congress.

A BILL amending the Naturalization laws has been agreed upon by a Committee of Congress, and is expected to pass this session. It places the power of Naturalization only in the United States District Courts. Registrars in Bankruptcy are to take, receive, and file all the evidence required for a person to become eligible for naturalization, and transmit the same to the Courts having jurisdiction in the matter. Persons who have been in the country four years and six months may become naturalized, but naturalization papers cannot be voted on until six months after the date of their issue. The judge granting naturalization papers may, during the six months probation, revoke them for sufficient cause. The most rigid rules concerning the examination and description of persons desiring to become naturalized are provided for. The Registrars in Bankruptcy are required to make quarterly returns of the numbers of applicants to the Secretary of State, who shall carefully place the same on file. The whole country will approve of this or any measure to guard against the enormous naturalization frauds that are perpetrated year after year.

THE House of Representatives, on Monday, rejected the Senate amendments to the proposed Constitutional Amendment concerning Suffrage by the decided vote of 132 to 37, and asked for a Committee of Conference. The difference between the plans of the two Houses is marked. The Representatives merely sought to guarantee suffrage from limitation on account of race, color, or previous condition of slavery, thus:

> "The right of any citizen of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or any State, by reason of race, or color, or previous condition of slavery, of any citizen or class of citizens in the United States."

The Senators extended the guarantee to office-holding as well as suffrage, and made it apply against any educational, property, nativity, or religious qualifications, as well as against any arising out of the old slavery distinctions:

> "No discrimination shall be made in the United States among the citizens of the United States in the exercise of the elective franchise, or in the right to hold office in any State, on account of race, color, nativity, property, education or creed."

On Wednesday, the Senate, instead of appointing a Committee of Conference, agreed to recede from its amendments by a vote of 33 to 24. A motion was then made to adopt the Article as it passed the House, resulting yeas 31, nays 27. Two-thirds not voting in the affirmative, the House proposition was not concurred in. Messrs. Abbott, Edmunds, McDonald, Osborn, Pomeroy, Ross, Sawyer, Spencer, Sumner, Thayer, Warner, Welch and Wilson (Republicans) voted in the negative with the Democratic Senators, to defeat the House proposition. The announcement of the vote created a good deal of feeling on the Republican side. After a protracted and exciting session lasting until midnight, the following proposition, originally reported by the Senate Committee, was adopted—yeas 35, nays 11:

> The right of citizens of the United States to vote or hold office shall not be abridged by the United States or by any State, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

This will now go back to the House for action. It looks as if some of the Radical Senators were prepared to kill manhood suffrage, unless they can couple with it a declaration of eligibility to office.

IN another column we give a detailed account of the interview between Gen. GRANT and the Congressional Committee appointed to communicate to the President and Vice President elect the official announcement of the electoral vote. Gen. GRANT gave the Committee to understand that, while he had determined on the persons whom he intended to invite into his Cabinet, from prudential motives he should not make the names known until sent to the Senate for confirmation. The Committee subsequently reported to Congress the following written reply from Gen. Grant:

> Gentlemen:—Please notify the two Houses of Congress of my acceptance of the important trust which you have just notified me of, my election as President of the United States, and say to them that it will be my endeavor that they, and those who elected them, shall have no cause to regret their action.

Also the following from Mr. Colfax:

> Gentlemen:—Please convey to the two Houses of Congress my acceptance of the Office to which I have been elected by the people of the United States, and assure them that I shall endeavor to prove worthy of this mark of confidence by fidelity to principle and duty.

THE President, who began his term breathing out threatenings and slaughter against traitors, seems likely to end in pardoning his predecessor's assassins. Dr. MUDD has been already pardoned, and the other prisoners at the Dry Tortugas will doubtless fare equally well. So much for the living conspirators. The bodies of the dead conspirators, Booth, Mrs. Surratt, Azteroth and Payne, are being delivered up, under Presidential orders, to their respective friends.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON, anxious to strike at Gen. Kilpatrick before going out of office, on Monday sent to the Senate the name of Judge Dent for the Chilian Mission. Judge Dent is Gen. Grant's brother-in-law, and Andy doubtless thought the Senate would be afraid not to confirm him, and Kilpatrick would thus be ousted. But Judge Dent quietly disposed of the matter by sending word to Senator Sumner that the appointment was unasked, and that he does not desire its confirmation

THE U. States Senate Judiciary Committee, to whom was referred the message of the President defending his Universal Amnesty Proclamation, made report on Wednesday, declaring that the powers attempted to be exercised in the proclamation to grant general amnesty are without the authority or consent of Congress, and have no foundation in the Constitution or laws.

IT is said President JOHNSON intends to make a visit to Europe in April.—JEFF. DAVIS will introduce him to the builders of the Alabama, and to Rebel sympathizers generally.

J. D. GIDDINGS, of London, N. H., wears a coat the cloth of which was spun and woven by his grandmother when she was sixteen years old. She lived to be one hundred years old. When her daughter was sixteen, the cloth was made over into a cloak for her. She is now ninety, and her son wears the same cloth in a coat. They don't make such in these degenerate times.

JUDGE Pearson delivered at Harrisburg on Monday a very able and elaborate opinion on the question whether the law passed in 1866, compelling the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to open sluices for the passage of fish in their dams along the Susquehanna, is constitutional. The Judge declared the bill passed in 1866 unconstitutional, and the fish are therefore compelled to stay below the dam at Columbia.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE RESULT.

GEN. GRANT'S REPLY TO THE COMMITTEE.

ECONOMY AND RETRENCHMENT HIS POLICY.

HONEST COLLECTION OF THE REVENUES TO BE SECURED.

DISHONEST OFFICIALS TO GO OUT.

NO CABINET ANNOUNCEMENT UNTIL MARCH 5.

WASHINGTON, February 13.—This morning, at halfpast 10 o'clock, Senator Morton and Representatives Pruyn, of New York, and Wilson of Iowa, made their appearance at the headquarters of the Army for the purpose of presenting to General Grant the certificate of his election as President of the United States.

The impression that the proceedings would be altogether private, together with the fact that the committee arrived a half-hour in advance of the hour at which it was understood the ceremony would take place, prevented the presence of a large number of persons who would otherwise have been attracted by the interesting proceedings.

General Grant was in his office at the time of the arrival of the committee, busily engaged in the performance of official duties. They were soon invited into his presence, and, with but very little delay, Senator Morton addressed the President elect, announcing that they were the committee appointed by Congress to present him with his commission as President of the United States for four years, commencing on the fourth of March next, and in a few remarks assured the General that his election was extremely gratifying to his countrymen, and that the people felt assured he would, in exercising the duties of his distinguished office, apply the same energy, integrity, and patriotism that had characterized him in a former sphere of usefulness; and in concluding his remarks said that he would have the support of the people of the nation, even including those who differed politically from him, in administering the affairs of the Government.

General Grant, receiving from Senator Morton the certificate of his election, announced amid intense interest on the part of the few gentlemen present, and in a firm, audible voice, substantially, that in accepting the office of President of the United States, he assured them of his determination to carry out faithfully the obligations of that office, and referred particularly to the necessities of an honest and faithful execution of the revenue laws. He would call around him men who would earnestly carry out the principles of economy, retrenchment and honesty, which were desired by the people of the country.—Should the officers of the different branches of the Government service not satisfy him in the discharge of their official functions, he would not hesitate a moment about removing them, and would do so just as quickly with his own appointments as with those of his predecessor.

General Grant stated that he had not announced his Cabinet up to the time of the official declaration of the result of his election, but had intended at that period to make known the names of those whom he would invite to become members. In the interval, however, he had concluded not to make known the names of the gentlemen whose services he should desire in this capacity, even to the gentlemen themselves, until he sent them into the Senate for confirmation. The reason for this determination, General Grant said, was that, should he do otherwise, a pressure would immediately commence from various parties to endeavor to induce him to change his determination, not so much probably from personal motives as on account of the interest which gentlemen may have for their own friends. For these and other reasons he had concluded to make no public announcement of his Cabinet until the time mentioned.

General Grant spoke without any reserve, and with the greatest frankness and courtesy, and his remarks were received by his distinguished visitors with every mark of interest and approbation. Mr. Pruyn, of the committee, addressed the General very briefly to the effect that while the party with which he was identified differed politically from the President elect, he desired to assure him that his administration in carrying out the principles which he had mentioned would have their hearty support and co-operation.

The members of the Staff of General Grant were present, about twenty gentlemen altogether, including the committee and Staff officers.

The committee subsequently waited upon Mr. Colfax, who, in response to the notification by the committee of his election as Vice President of the United States, said:

Gentlemen—Please convey to the two Houses of Congress my acceptance of the office to which I have been elected by the people of the United States, and assure them that I shall endeavor to prove worthy of this mark of confidence by fidelity to principle and duty.

DEATHS FROM HYDROPHOBIA.

Chas. Sudlam, residing in Marcy-avenue New York, died on Monday from the effects of hydrophobia. It appears he was bitten about a month since by a little dog belonging to him. The injury was a slight one, and was soon forgotten, but it seems his blood had become impregnated with the poison, for on Sunday he was taken ill with the symptoms of that terrible disease, and grew rapidly worse until yesterday, when death relieved him of his sufferings. He leaves a wife and four children, one of whom was also bitten by the animal. The physicians who attended Mr. Sudlam, have ordered his son, 6 years old, to be locked up, and every precaution taken to guard against his doing injury to himself or others. As soon as Mr. Sudlam was seized with the first spasms, he knew what was coming, ordered physicians to be called in, and warned persons to keep away from him. As the spasms increased, they were compelled to tie him upon the bedstead with sheets, but his agony was so great at times that he tore the sheets like ribbons, and broke the bedstead to which he was tied. There were six men with him constantly, until death relieved him of his sufferings. It appears his little boy was first bitten by the dog, and Mr. Sudlam hearing him cry, went out to ascertain the cause, when the dog sprang at him and bit him in the hand. He immediately killed the animal, but it appears did not comprehend the great danger he was in or the fearful result.

Some three months since Mr. Distlekamp, and two children of a Mr. Kromenacker, residing at Foster's Meadow, L. I., were bitten by a rabid dog. Their wounds were promptly cauterized, and the proper remedies administered by a physician, with a view, if possible, to prevent hydrophobia, with apparently good results. On Friday last, however, while the youngest child of Mr. Kromenacker was taking a drink of water it was seized with hydrophobia, and died in great agony on Saturday night.

A mad dog was shot in Jamaica, L. I., on Monday, but not until he had bitten a boy and several dogs. During the past month some twenty mad dogs have been killed in Queens County.

Timothy McCarty, a saloon-keeper in Patterson, N. J., who was bitten by a mad dog on New Year's day, was seized with paroxysms of hydrophobia on Sunday, and after terrible suffering died.

WHELAN, the murderer of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, was hanged on Thursday, at Ottawa. There was no demonstration.

BLOODY AFFRAY IN A MEMPHIS BALL ROOM.

A Gambler Invites a Strange Lady to Dance with Him—Her Partner Partially Succeeds in Cutting off the Gambler's Head—Five Persons Stabbed.

A shocking affray occured at a ball in the new assembly Hall, on Main street, about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, resulting in the wounding of five persons—one or two of them dangerously.

The Rev. Father Snyder, of St. Mary's Church, opened a festival or fair the evening before to raise funds to assist in completing the new church which the congregation have been trying to build with great zeal and liberality of spirit. The hall had lately been refitted in good taste, and this was the first time it had been used for any public purpose since the improvements.—The attendance was quite numerous, the music was animating, and dancing was carried on in a spirit of joyment and satisfaction until a late hour, and naught was dreamed of save harmony, good feeling, and genial flow of soul.

About 2 o'clock, when some people, tired or satisfied, had gone home, several persons dropped in to take a look at the dancing. At that time about one hundred persons were present. Among those who came was Capt. "Bill" Rice, a well-known sporting man, and one or two friends. The Captain had not been in the hall long before he concluded to join in the dancing. He danced once or twice, and finally asked a woman to dance who, it is alleged, had not been introduced to him. Some of the bystanders say that she refused, others that she consented, and was in the act of joining with him in the last set that was to be. At this stage of the ball, when Capt. Rice was standing by the woman, her escort, a young boiler maker, named Timothy McGrath, who had been drinking freely, rushed through the startled crowd, with a large knife in his hand, and assaulted the Captain with terrific violence.

Before the man attacked could defend himself or get out of the way, McGrath cut him across the side of the neck, and inflicted a fearful wound. The blood spirted out two or three feet, and Rice fell forward into the arms of Captain William Forrest, a brother of the General. The scene that followed it would be futile to attempt to describe. The mutual friends of each party, and the curious, eager spectators rushed forward, women screamed, friends mistook each other for foes, pistols were drawn and flourished, and men shouted for the police, for the doctor, and for what they knew not. The crowd rushed frantically down-stairs by the front and back ways; blood was running on the floor in a pool; the man appeared to be dying, and McGrath flourished defiantly his bloody weapon.

Six or eight policemen had left the room not half an hour before, but none happened to be present at the moment. Some one, perhaps the watchman of the building, blew his whistle for the police, and another man ran out and fired off his pistol to attract their attention. The first one who arrived was Officer John Farrell, of the Upper District. He seized McGrath, and a desperate struggled ensued. The drunken man seemed endowed with superhuman strength, and managed to wound the policeman in the right cheek, near the ear, and in his neck below. Farrell then drew his pistol, but some one seized it from behind, and wrested it out of his grasp. The two men then tumbled, one over the other, down the stairway to the pavement, when McGrath sprang to his feet like a tiger, and escaped around the corner of Gayoso street, and ran toward the river.

Mr. Metcalf, another policeman, arrived on the ground about this time, and being joined by Mr. Henry Richmond, a special constable, if we mistake not, they pursued McGrath down to the foot of Union street when they overhauled and captured him after a stubborn resistance. He went with them as far back as Front street, when he broke loose, drew his knife again and defied them. The three partially surrounded him and waited reinforcements, as they did not wish to shoot him down. Two or three others soon arrived and charged on the enemy and took him. He fought with almost superhuman strength, and in the struggle Metcalf was severely cut in the left arm, above the elbow, and was also cut in the upper lip. Mr. Richmond was likewise wounded, though not to such a severe extent. The police used their clubs freely on McGrath before he gave up. The prisoner was carried to the Southern District Station House and locked up for the night.

In the meantime Dr. Rogers, the Health Officer, arrived at the hall and dressed Capt. Rice's severe wound. It was thought at first that his jugular vein was severed, but a due examination revealed the fact that it had barely escaped. After the lapse of an hour nearly the Captain recovered sufficiently to speak, and his first words were, "send for my wife." This was instantly done, and when she arrived the appaling sight of her pale, bloody husband on a gory floor, caused her to faint, and she fell across him on the floor. It was not until daylight that any effort was made to remove the wounded man; he was then carefully conveyed to his room at 40 Jefferson street. He revived considerably during the day, and could talk a little in a feeble tone of voice. With care there is a possibility he will recover. Captain Rice is from Kentucky. During the war he was a captain in the Confederate army, and was under General Forrest. Since the close of the war he has lived here, and has been identified with the sporting fraternity.

LOVE, MURDER AND SELF-DESTRUCTION. —Two Mississippi river steamboat hands, named Noe and Cartwright, lately had a quarrel about a young lady at Memphis, whose hand and heart they both wished to obtain. Cartwright thought his chances would be improved by getting rid of his rival, so he shot Noe through the head, killing him instantly. His joy, however, was short-lived, for on the very day on which the murder was committed he learned that the young lady in question had discarded both him and his victim, and bestowed her favors upon a third person. He thereupon surrendered himself to an officer, and, with the pistol used in slaying his rival, blew his own brains out. The ball passed through his head, and inflicted a slight wound upon the officer who had him in custody.

ON Friday last a man and his wife, who live near St. Louis, went to the city on business, leaving their little boy, eight years of age, at home with the hired man. On their return they found that their house had been robbed, and a short search revealed the dead body of the boy, covered up under a pile of corn and a couple of sacks of wheat. He had been smothered to death. His hands and feet had been tied, and the wheat then thrown over him. The hired man is missing, and is supposed to be the thief and murderer.

THE new English Parliament was opened on Tuesday, and the address of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, was read by the Lord Chancellor. She assures the realm that the government is at peace with all foreign powers; that the war cloud in the East has disappeared, and expresses the hope that the negotiations with the United States will place on a durable basis the friendship which should exist between England and America.

NEWS OF NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

BEDFORD.—The contest between the candidates for the Bedford Postoffice is to be decided by an election to be held by the Republican voters in that place, to-morrow, the 20th inst.—A large Republican county meeting was held on the 9th inst., at which resolutions were adopted in favor of the re-nomination of Gen. Geary for Governor, and Judge Williams for the Supreme Bench.

CARROLL.—The Farmers and Mechanic's National Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of five per cent.

CUMBERLAND.—During the last month or two the Lutheran church in Carlisle has been the scene of an extensive revival.—Mr. Jacob Coover, of Mechanicsburg, died, on Monday morning last, at the advanced age of 83 years, 3 months and 7 days.—Dr. Schoeppe, the physician who attended Miss M. A. Stinnecke in her last illness, has been arrested on the charge of having poisoned her. Miss Stinnecke's remains were taken to Baltimore, where the contents of her stomach are now undergoing a chemical analysis. On the strength of intelligence received at Carlisle, as to the result of this examination, the arrest was made, and the accused committed to prison.—At Shippensburg, Saturday night, the store of Isaac Landis was entered and robbed of a small amount of jewelry, the burglars being unable to break open the safe.

FRANKLIN.—Andrew Dalrymple, the absconding Postmaster at Brown's Mill, was arrested in Chicago a few days ago and brought back, and placed in the custody of his bondsmen, to wait the disposition of the Government.—On Saturday last John Andrews, of Chambersburg, conductor on freight train, had his left hand so badly mashed while coupling cars, that its amputation was necessary.—The Democratic County Committee met on Saturday last to elect delegates to the State Convention. The contest between the Cass and Packer men was lively but the Cass men won, electing John R. Orr and B. F. Winger delegates.

FULTON.—Smith M. Robinson has purchased from Mr. Donehoo the latter's interest in the Fulton Democrat, to take effect on the 1st of April.

WASHINGTON.—The Cholera so fatal to poultry has made its appearance in the vicinity of Smithsburg, sweeping in its course, Chickens, Turkeys, Geese, &c.—One day last week a daughter, aged about 8 years, of Mr. Henry Bartles, residing in the Indian Spring District, in this county, whose clothing accidently caught fire, was burned to death, or at least was so injured that death ensued in a short time after the burning.

WESTMORELAND.—A fire occurred at Irwintown, on Sunday evening February 7th, resulting in the loss of a fine frame dwelling house, belonging to Mr. N. Mathias, also a tailor shop and a valuable lot of goods owned by Mr. Douthill, Merchant tailor; the fire originated in the tailor shop.—John Irwin, of Irwintown, sold his coal under one farm on the 2d inst., to the Westmoreland Coal Company, for $80,000.

YORK.—The "Ziegle Guard" of York are making arrangements to attend Gen. Grant's inauguration.—On the 7th inst., John Hilbert, of North Codorus, met with his death rather singularly. He had been on the hay stable pitching hay, after which he threw the fork to the lower floor, handle upward. He jumped after the fork, and slipped, lit upon it with his posterior, the fork entering his person about twelve inches. When found he had relieved himself of the fork, but was bleeding very profusely. His sufferings were extremely great, and death ensued about 24 hours thereafter. His age was about 33 years.—On Wednesday afternoon last, Mr. William Kraber, the oldest public school teacher of York, died suddenly while on way from his school to his home, of appoplexy.

THE RECENT HORRIBLE MURDER AT HANNIBAL, MISSOURI.

The Courier of this city gives further particulars of the horrible murder committed in that city on Friday last, which was briefly reported in the Democrat of the 8th.

The most horrible affair that ever occurred in Hannibal took place yesterday afternoon. A man named Sebastian Hupfer, a German by birth and a shoemaker by trade, killed his child during a fit of insanity.—The man in question has resided in Hannibal several years, bearing the reputation of being a cruel man to his family. His wife left him some time since, it being found utterly impossible to live with him. His conduct has been remarkably strange for a long time, but was attributed to his natural meanness, instead of a species of insanity. Yesterday morning, as he states, he conceived the idea that the devil was in his dog, and that by killing him he would perform a righteous service. He accordingly despatched the canine. We believe this aroused suspicion that all was not right with him, and a policeman was sent for.—The man having no apparent symptoms of insanity or drunkenness, the officer left him after giving some advice. After the policeman had gone, the shoemaker imagined the devil was in one of his children, a little girl eight years of age. Calling her to him, he seized her, placed a strap around her neck, threw her to the floor, placed his foot on her head, and taking a knife, cut out her heart and swallowed the coagulated blood. He was arrested some time after committing the deed. He was found in his own house with the door fastened. He made no attempt to conceal his guilt, but gave a straightforward history of the affair, manifesting no regret at the occurrence.—He stated that by drinking the child's blood he would never want food, that he felt justified in the course he had pursued. He is pronounced by some, if not all, the medical faculty who have examined him, as a monomaniac on the subject of religion.—He has not tasted food since committing the foul deed, claiming that he will want no nourishment the remainder of his life. He will probably be sent to the insane asylum. On any subject aside from that of the murder he seems rational, but persists in justifying himself in the perpetration of the act for which he is now imprisoned.

DEAD OR ALIVE—A STRANGE CASE.—On Thursday, the fourth instant, a young lady, daughter of a dentist living on Hudson street, on coming home from a party, complained of suffering from a chill. After endeavoring to get warm at the fire down stairs, she retired to her chamber and went to bed. Here she was visited by her mother, to whom she related her symptoms.—Thinking that some hot application to the feet would prove efficacious, Mrs. —— proceeded to the kitchen, filled several bottles with hot water and returned to her daughter's chamber, only to find that life had apparently departed, and that her daughter was dead. All due preparations were made for the funeral, and the usual services were performed on Monday last at the house; but a gentleman to whom the young lady was engaged to be married protested against the burial of the body, asserting that his fiancee was not dead, but only in a trance. His assertion was thought to be well-founded, as, on examination, it was found that, although the heart had ceased to beat, or the blood to pulsate perceptibly through the veins, the corpse had not lost its warmth. Accordingly the body of the young lady is still kept at her residence in Hudson street, awaiting development of the fact whether she is in a state of trance or syncope, or actually dead.—New York Commercial.

THE application by the friends of the late Mrs. Surratt for her remains having been granted, the friends and relatives of all the other conspirators executed under the sentence of the military commission have made similar applications.

THREE Pennsylvanians of German descent settled near Cambellsville, in Taylor county, about a year ago, and they are already making the natives open their eyes at the results of their system of tillage. Last year they made land which was regarded as pretty well exhausted by successive crops of tobacco yield 130 bushels of corn to the acre.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

NOTHING LIKE IT IN MEDICINE.

It has long been claimed that if we knew it, there would be an herb, or a combination of herbs, roots and barks that would cure all the ills human flesh is heir to. Dr. Mishler, with a few of his professional friends, have kept this idea constantly in view, and labored earnestly and perseveringly for years to find this most desirable treasure. Though they have not found an instant cure for all complaints, they have nevertheless discovered a remedy, which, as yet, has never failed in curing Chills and Fever, Dyspepsia, and all diseases arising from any impurity of the blood or disarrangement of the digestive organs, including Liver Complaint, Coughs, Colds, Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Nervousness, General Debility and all affections of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs.

This great discovery, in honor of the indefatigable labors of Dr. B. Mishler, is called Mishler's Herb Bitters, and wherever introduced takes the place of Quinine and the host of other remedies used heretofore for the complaints enumerated above.

The Star and Sentinel.

Gettysburg, Friday, Feb. 19, 1869.

I. O. O. F.—We understand the new Lodge of Odd Fellows, for which a Charter was recently obtained from the Grand Lodge, will be organized in Bendersville, on Monday evening next.

REVIVALS.—Interesting revivals have been in progress for some weeks in the Methodist Church in this place, the United Brethern Church in Littlestown, and at Bittenger's School House, in Oxford township.

☞We notice that Col. Bachelor, on Tuesday evening last, delivered an address in the Hall of the House of Representatives, at Harrisburg, on the battle of Gettysburg. Governor Geary presented the speaker to the audience.

LOCATED.—The Westminster Advocate says that the President and Directors of the Frederick and Pennsylvania Line Railroad have located it as far as Bruceville, in Carroll county, and it will shortely be put under contract. This road commences at Frederick and extends to Littlestown a distance of about thirty miles.

PHILO ANNIVERSARY.—The Philomathaean Society of Pennsylvania College will hold an Anniversary, in Agricultural Hall, on Monday evening the 22d inst. The exercises will consist of original orations by members of the society.—The College Church choir has kindly consented to furnish music for the occasion. The citizens are respectfully invited to attend.

APPOINTED.—Gov. McClurg, of Missouri, has appointed Rev. David A. Wilson, of Ironton, Warden of the Missouri Penitentiary. Rev. Mr. Wilson is a native of Adams county. A few years before the Rebellion he located in Missouri, and during the terrible struggles between the loyalists and rebels for the control of the State, Mr. Wilson gave active, earnest aid to the former. He was Chaplain to Gov. McClurg's regiment during the War.

☞The following bills on Monday passed the House of Representatives:

Senate bill to repeal an act to annex the real estate of Wm. M'Sherry, in Germany township, Adams county, to the borough of Littlestown, for school purposes.

An act authorizing the school directors of the borough of Littlestown, in the county of Adams, to sell certain real estate and to borrow money.

IMPROVEMENTS.—D. H. Klingle has torn down the old frame building adjoining the Vandersloot property on Baltimore street, and will at once put up a new brick building.

David Blubaugh is putting up a fine dwelling, with carpenter shop and stable, on the lot corner of Washington street and the Railroad.

Wm. T. Ziegler has built a commodious carriage-making shop in the same locality.

THE LARGEST WEEKLY PAPER IN THE WORLD.—The Church Union comes to us a sixteen page, 33 by 46, weekly issue. It is double the size of the weekly quartos. It has three pages of stories. One page each issue devoted to Henry Ward Beecher's Sermons. One page for the farmer, and a vast amount of news. It gives about double the matter of the best religious papers, for exactly the same price, $2.50. It has dropped all premiums, and claims that henceforth it must be taken by those who want it. Send for a copy, enclosing 10 cents, to Henry E. Child, Publisher, 41 Park Row, N. Y. City.

☞The following gentlemen have been elected Directors of the Mummasburg Mutual Fire Protection Society, for the ensuing year: E. W. Stahle, H. J. Brinkerhoff, George Thomas, John Mickley, Jacob H. Plank, Barnat Myers, Martin Thomas, Peter Sholl, Michael Dietrich, Sr., Michael Dietrich, Jr., Robert Watson, Thomas G. Neely. The Board has organized as follows; President, E. W. Stahle; Vice President, Michael Dietrich, Sr.; Secretary, James Russell; Treasurer, H. J. Brinkerhoff; Executive Committee, Peter Sholl, Jacob H. Plank, Martin Thomas.

Y. S. BUILDING ASSOCIATION.—At the annual meeting of the York Springs Building Association, held on Saturday evening, Feb. 6, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year;

President—R. W. Sadler; Vice President—Gen. W. W. Stewart; Secretary—H. W. Becker; Treasurer—Dr. I. W. Pearson; Attorney—Wm. A. Duncan; Directors—E. G. Fahnestock, I. D. Worley, A. Grove, A. K. Myers, H. A. Sheeler.

The Association is in a flourishing condition, and has paid off seventy-two shares the first year of its operation.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—A Lodge of Good Templars has been organized at Hampton, which starts fairly and with good promise of healthy influence. On Wednesday evening the 3rd inst., the following officers of the Hampton Lodge were installed by District Deputy Rev. T. E. Snyder, viz:

W. C. T., J. D. Getz; W. V. T., S. A. Blish; W. S., A. H. Howard; W. T., J. H. Riggle; W. F. S., J. E. Herman; W. C., W. H. Wagner; W. I. G., Seright Myers; W. O. G., D. W. Howard; R. H. S., H. A. Blish Herman; L. H. S., C. L. Myers; W. A. S., J. D. Baker; W. D. M., Ira G. Wolf; P. W. C. T., J. L. Brenizer.

FARMER'S MEETING.—The meeting of Farmers, in Agricultural Hall, on the 6th inst., was the largest, and probably the most interesting, yet held. Mr. Isaac Hereter, of Marsh creek, occupied the chair. The raising of stock and feeding of cattle were thoroughly talked over, and many facts of interest and value elicited. Messrs. Isaac Hereter. W. Ross White, John F. Felty, Josiah Benner, Thomas T. Norris, Frederick Diehl, Wm. Wible, S. Powers, H. J. Stahle, and others, participated in the discussion.

Another meeting will be held, at the same place, on the first Saturday in March, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, precisely.—Subject—"The Planting of Spring Crops." —Compiler.

HOW TO KILL A TOWN.—A contemporary gives the following receipt for knocking a town stiff and dead: "If you wish to kill off a town, put up no more buildings than you are obliged to occupy yourself. If you should happen to have an empty building, and any one should want to rent it, ask about three times its actual value. Look at every new-corner with a scowl. Turn a cold shoulder to every business man or mechanic seeking a home among you. Go abroad for wares rather than purchase of your own merchants or manufacturers at the same prices. Refuse to advertise, so that a person at a distance will not suppose any business is being done in your town. A prompt and close observance of these rules will ruin any town in two years.

THE SPRINGS HOTEL.—The erection of a large Hotel in connection with the Katalysine Springs has been definitely determined. The contract for the erection of the building has been taken by Dr. G. D. Smith, the present enterprising Superintendant of the Springs. The main building facing the park is to be 120 feet long and 44 deep, three stories with an attick; with a wing extending back towards the south 80 x 38 feet to be also three stories with attick, and a one-story Kitchen 40 x 38 feet. The building is intended to accommodate 250 guests, and is to be finished by the 20th of June next, or in time to be furnished and ready for use at the final consecration ceremonies of the National Soldiers' Monument. The company agree to pay Dr. Smith, $35,000. The building will be frame. Ground was broken for the new building on Tuesday.

ANSWERS TO PROBLEM.—We have received several solutions of the Problem stated by H. H. P. in last week's paper.—G. A. M., Arendtsville; M. J. Miller, Cashtown; J. A. M., Dillsburg; and H. M., Gettysburg, all give the same answers, viz: 72 hen eggs, 8 goose eggs, and 20 duck eggs. J. M., Cumberland, gives 74, 11 and 15 as the proportions; and W. C. M., Highland, gives 76, 14, and 10. J. A. M. sends us his solution which may be of interest to some of our young readers, and we accordingly give it in full:

DILLSBURG, Jan. 13th, 1869.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The following is an answer and solution to the problem that appeared in the last issue of your paper. I find however, that the question will admit of several answers. The one I have received by the most convenient method is as follows: 72 hen eggs, 20 duck eggs, and 8 goose eggs, which, as will be readily seen, exactly proves.

If he had bought all the eggs at 1 cent apiece, the answer would be immediately conceived; but he bought them at ½, 2 and 3 cents apiece. On one hen egg, therefore, there is a gain of ½ cent, and on one duck egg a loss of 1 cent. To equalize this we take 4 hen eggs and 2 duck eggs. In the same manner, on one goose egg there is a loss of 2 cents; therefore to make it again equal we take 4 more hen eggs and 1 goose egg. This would make the number of each 8, 2 and 1. But it is evident that the number of each is greater, since there must be 100 eggs. We can now multiply the above numbers, 8, 2 and 1, by any number that will make neither of them greater than 100. We will take 8, as it is the most convenient:

8 x 8=64
2 x 8=16
1 x 8= 8

The numbers are now 64, 16 and 8; but by adding them together we find that they amount to but 88 eggs, which is deficient 12 eggs. We must now dispose of the remainder proportionally. By the conditions of the question the number of hen eggs is to the duck eggs as 2 to 1, or, what is the same thing, as 4 to 2. The number of duck eggs to be added, therefore, is one-third of 12 which is 4 and the number of hen eggs, which is two-thirds, is 2 times 4 which is 8. 64 & 8=72. 16 & 4 20. 72 hen eggs, 20 duck eggs and 8 goose eggs. If the above solution is not correct, I will try it again.

J. A. M.

ANOTHER.—Y. & P., Heidlersburg, send us three solutions of the problem, viz:

Hen eggs,	72—36		74—37		70—35
Duck "	20—40		15—30		25—50
Goose "	8—24		11—33		5—15
	100	100	100	100	100	100

With the above, the following Problem is submitted:

A merchant has but four weights, and can weigh any number of pounds from one up to forty, and the four weights weigh just forty pounds. Can any of the readers of the "Star & Sentinel" give us the weight of each weight?

SALES.—Henry Beamer has purchased from David Hartman, his farm in Menallen township, 115 acres and improvements, for $4,000 cash.

Samuel Shultz, of Oxford township, has sold 18 acres to Mr. Glasse, of Conowago township, for $2,300.

W. F. Crouse, of Littlestown, on Saturday last, bought the Union Hotel and lot, in Taneytown, at $3,900.

Samuel Secrist has sold the "Graffenburg Springs" to Martin Shoemaker, of Greenvillage, for $7,000.

YOU CAN BET—ter your condition considerably by buying a good Sewing Machine from D. W. Robinson, Agent, Baltimore street. feb.22—3t

POMEROY'S DEMOCRAT.—M. M. or "Brick" Pomeroy's new paper already exceeds in circulation every other political paper in the world. It is "red hot," and of unusual interest. Send for sample copies. Printing House Square, New York City.

GREAT SURPRISE.—We were astonished the other day in passing Arnold's old corner. Norris has changed his base to this corner, and is surprising every body that visits him by his large and cheap Stock of Clothing, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c., &c. Give him a call. tf

☞C! C! C!—Norris will, after the 1st day of January sell all kinds of Winter Clothing at greatly redued prices—Over Coats as low as $4.00, Cavalry Over Coats at $6.25, Infantry Over Coats $5.25, and all other Winter goods at greatly reduced prices, to make room for Spring goods. tf

HOUSEKEEPERS, and all others want ing anything in the house-keeping line, will do well to call at Col. C. H. Buehler's extensive Ware-room, near the Passenger depot, on Carlisle street, who has on hand a very large assortment of Stoves of the best manufacture, Cooking, Parlor, Office, and Chamber Stoves, for wood or Coal; also Hollow Ware, Tin Ware, Japan Ware, Britannia Ware, Bird Cages, and a general assortment of Kitchen utensils. Also Coal and Lumber of all kinds. tf

JUST THE THINGS.—Wanted by every Housekeeper, and when once tried will not be dispensed with. We mean, of course, the Patent Press and Strainer for lard, tallow, cider, apples, tomatoes, pumpkins, potatoes, berries, jellies, jam, &c.,—and the Patent Tack Driver, for streching and tacking Carpets at the same time. They are both ingenious contrivances, and should be in every family. To be had at Col. Buehler's Ware-room, Carlisle street, opposite Depot. tf

HEAD QUARTERS REMOVED.—Capt. Norris, has removed his store to Arnold's Corner, next door to the 1st National Bank, where you will find one of the best and cheapest Stock of Clothing, Hats, Caps, Boots, and Shoes, and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods of every discription, in the county. He is selling Winter Clothing at greatly reduced prices to make room for Spring Goods. If you want a Bargain go to Norris' corner. All kinds of Men's and Boy's Clothing, Hats, Caps, Boots and Shoes as cheap as before the War. If you don't believe this, call and be convinced.—Don't forget the place. tf.

THE MORNING GLORY.—Col. C. H. Buehler has received a large assortment of these famous base-burning Stoves, which on the score of economy, cleanliness, easy management, and general utility stand unrivalled and defy competition. The great demand for them last season taxed the capacity of the Manufacturers to meet the demand. They are much improved and will doubtless ere long take the place of all other stoves for parlor, office store and shop. Call and look at them, at the Wareroom on corner of Carlisle and Railroad street, opposite the depot.

Also, on hand a full assortment of the best varieties of COOKING STOVES, including the Spear, Noble Cook, Waverly, Oriental, Washing, Barley Sheaf, Prince Royal, Royal Cook, Excelsior, &c. &c., all WARRANTED to be good bakers. If not satisfactory, they can be returned and the money refunded. Also, a large assortment of Hollow Ware and Tin Ware, Doty's Washing Machine and Universal Wringer. Call and examine. tf

A young couple in Rockport, Maine, while courting walked out together arm-in-arm, and fell through a hole in the sidewalk, each breaking a leg. Their fall proved a "lift" to them, and set them up in the world—a jury awarding them a verdict of $12,000 against the town.

California suffered during the two last days of last week from a rain and snow storm of great severity, doing great damage to railroads and other property. Shocks of earthquake were also felt throughout the State.

FARMERS,

Fruit Growers & Gardners.

Best's "Improved Patent Fruit Tree Invigorator and Vine Insect Destroyer."

THIS is truly one of the greatest discoveries ever made—combining the most useful ingredients ever known for fruit, grain and general vegetation. As a fertilizer, it has no equal. When applied to the tree it penetrates every pore—destroying every species of insect, and the worm in the heart of the tree or plant—connecting with the mineral substance of the earth, destroys the cause and prevents the creation of any destructive insect. It will prevent Curculio from stinging the plum It will kill the peach grub. It will loosen the knot and old bark on the vine and tree—slough off the same and re-bark the stock. In a word, it re-invigorates the whole tree and gives it health and strength to withstand the severity of the weather and retain its fruit It will destroy all insects which infest the pot-flowers, cucumbers, potatoes, tomatoes, plants, &c. and stimulate their growth. It will prevent weevil, mildew, rust or the fly from touching the wheat, and the cut worm from the corn. It is now extensively used in the Western States, and persons who use it would not be without it for one thousand times its value. No man who has a single fruit tree can afford to be without it. Upon application, we will refer to persons who are using it in Berks county, and would not take $1000 for their recipe, we will give residence and address. The undersigned have purchased the sole right to use, sell and apply the Invigorator within the counties of York, Cumberland, Adams, Franklin, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery, Lehigh and Philadelphia City and county, and are now prepared to sell townships or county rights. Persons who have purchased townships have made as high as $50 to $100 per day selling farm rights at from $5 to $10 per recipe.

The public are notified to purchase no right of J. Ahearn, alias Geo. W. Jackson, of Baltimore, Md. as we will prosecute to the utmost extent, all who buy from him to sell or use. The sole right for the above territory is owned by use. Ahearn never saw Best's Improved Patent, and knows nothing of its ingredients. Our right was obtained from the patentee, Mr. Best—who is now prosecuting Ahearn in the Baltimore Courts for fraud. EVANS & CO.

OF THE

UNION PACIFIC

RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Government of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $28,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsides are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the centre road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

ARE

PAYABLE IN GOLD.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run. The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $28,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS ONLY, ON AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers		$1,024,005.97
"	Freight	2,040,233.19
"	Express	51,423.08
"	Mails	136,235.59
"	Miscellaneous	91,626 27
"	Government troops	104,077.77
"	" freight	449,449 33
"	Contractors' men	201,179.09
"	" material	966,430.32
Total		$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

PHILOSOPHY OF UNDER-DRAINING.

The following from the New England Farmer, will help to illustrate the great importance of under-draining, and will show why it is so much insisted on by intelligent and scientific agriculturists:

When soil is wet, the heat of the sun, which is intended to warm the soil, is expended in evaporating the water from the surface, and thus the warmth which is necessary to the growth of plants does not reach their roots.

When a soil is dry it often becomes twenty or thirty degrees warmer than the atmosphere above it, but a soil filled with water is cooler than the atmosphere.

When a soil is too wet the plant-food which it contains is so much diluted that a much greater quantity of fluid must be taken up by the roots, or it will not receive due nourishment. The vessels of the plant will be gorged with so much water that the plant itself will be kept at low temperature, in consequence of the increased evaporation from the steam and leaves.

When clay soils are wet they become compact and adhesive, and prevent the air from reaching the roots of plants. When the water is removed they become open and mellow and admit the air freely, and are more easily worked.

Drainage not only removes the water, but makes room for the air, which will by the force of natural laws take its place, and penetrate to every part from which the water is drawn off.

Vegetable matter immersed in water decomposes slowly, and yields but little food to plants, and that not always of a wholesome character. But when the air has free access to it, it decomposes rapidly, and yields carbonic acid and other elements of nutrition. Manures containing organic matters go much farther on a dry soil than on a wet one. If a sandy soil lies upon a wet clay subsoil, the water will constantly rise towards the surface and the roots and organic matter in the soil will have the benefit of its presence.

On some soils plants are liable to be parched up in a drought. This often because the roots cannot penetrate the subsoil, which is filled with stagnant or unwholesome water. Remove this stagnant water by a drain, and the subsoil will become mellow and sweet, and the roots will penetrate deeply into it, and thus be able to endure a drought that dries the surface.

Sometimes it does very little good to break up a hard, compact subsoil with the plough. It soon becomes again hard and impenetrable. But if the soil is drained below this hard pan the rains penetrate through it and soften it, and remove any noxious properties it may contain, and a deep root-bed is made the plants, by which they will be sustained even in very dry seasons. It is where hard subsoils lie near the surface that crops suffer most from droughts.

Thus drainage warms, and deepens, and sweetens the soil, and renders it more productive, and enables the growing crops the better to endure the effects of a wet or a dry season. The roots of corn and some other crops penetrate a mellow soil from three to four feet deep. Draining, then, to be effectual, should take off the water to a depth somewhat below that to which the roots penetrate. This should always be done where the fall is sufficient to allow it.

Fattening Poultry in France.—The following description is given of the method adopted in France for fattening poultry on an extended scale: A large circular building, thoroughly ventilated, and with the light partially excluded, is constructed and fitted up with cages placed on tiers of circular shelves revolving on a common central axis. The apparatus is so arranged as to be readily raised, depressed or rotated, and the cages are so divided as to give each bird a separate stall, containing a perch. The birds are placed with their tails converging in a common centre, while the head of each may be brought in front by a simple rotatory movement of the shelf on the central axis. Each bird is fastened to its cell by leathern fetters, which prevent movement except of the head and wings, without occasioning pain. When the feeding time comes, the bird is enveloped in a wooden case, permitting only the head and neck to appear, and which is popularly known as the paletot or overcoat; by this means all unnecessary struggling is avoided. The attendant (a young girl) seizes the head in the left hand, gently presses the break, in order to open it; then, with her right, she introduces into the gullet a tin tube about the size of a finger. This tube is united to a flexible pipe communicating with the dish of food, and from which the desired quantity is instantaneously injected into the stomach.—The feeding process, it is stated, is so short that two hundred birds can be fed by one person in an hour. The food is a liquid paste composed of Indian and barley meal boiled in milk. It is administered three times a day, in quantities varying according to the condition of each bird.

Use for Coal Ashes.—A careful farmer in Ohio writes that he has used coal ashes for twenty years as a compost for the droppings in the poultry yard. White and red ash contains four per cent. of soluble alumina. By sifting dry coal ashes every morning under his roosts, he obtains at the end of a year a ton or more of material as rich as guano. The coal ash should be kept perfectly dry. In that condition it is as good as gypsum as an absorbent.

How Seeds are Scattered.—Dr. Trimble said that in the craws of robbins, and other birds, he has found the seeds of apples, of wild roses, and of weeds. They go through the bird without having the germinating power destroyed. P. T. Quinn says many seeds, the oily sorts specially, will keep many years, and come up the first season they are exposed to air and light. This is especially true of the rag-weed.

Marriage Portion.—The marriage portion of a young bride in olden times was a feather bed, six chairs, a plain cherry table and bureau, six cups and saucers, half a dozen silver spoons, and a lot of sand for sanding floors. Now they expect a set of silver plate, carved hair-seat sofas, ottomans, divans, tete-a-tetes, rosewood pianos, marbletop tables for parlors, and painted furniture for chambers, Brussel carpets, and all other such modern fixings for show.

The New York Times says that private advices from Paris state, on very good authority, that General Dix has received a letter from General Grant, in which the latter says he shall be very happy to continue him in the position of Minister to France if he desires to retain it, but that General Dix intends to resign at the opening of the new administration, as he desires to return to the United States early in the spring.

Wealth of Pennsylvania.—The Executive Council of the Philadelphia Board of Trade estimate the product in money, of the coal, iron and oil of this State, for the last year, at $195,000,000. This is a greater sum than is produced by all the gold bearing States and Territories, and yet it is the yield of only the mineral product of the State, leaving the vast agricultural and other sources of her wealth out of view.

The Northern Central Railway Company will issue tickets at reduced rates, from all principal points on their road to Baltimore and return, good from the 2d to the 10th of March, in order to allow persons residing on the line of their road to visit Washington on the occasion of the inauguration on March 4th.

THE CRAIG MICROSCOPE.

This celebrated patent instrument is simple, cheap, and of permanent availability. It is an optical wonder. It magnifies minute transparent objects 100 diameters or 10,000 times, rendering the animalcules in impure water, the globules in milk, blood, etc., the minute unseen claws, joints, etc. of insects, and, definitely the shape of the pollen of flowers, visible. It shows in diseased pork, the "trichina spiralis," (first discovered in this country with this microscope,) uric acid, urea, etc. definitely, and the eels in vinegar magnified to from one to four inches in length. Mailed for $2.75; or, with six mounted objects, comprising a bee's sting, a wasp's wing, a fly's foot, butterfly's wing dust, mouse's hair, and human hair, $1.00 additional; slides, specially prepared for this microscope, each containing a microscopic picture, 50c. each. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

HAIR DRESSING,

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c. and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Billious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

THE GREAT Invigorator and Restorer OF THE Vitality of the Stomach.

Prepared from Pure Vegetable Materials.

Pure Tonics and the most Pleasant Aromatics.

This invaluable Remedy for Dyspepsia and General Debility of the system is offered to the public, after a fair trial of its merits, with entire confidence that it will command their approval. It has been submitted, with the materials which compose it, to practising Physicians—among others to Dr. M. D. G. PFEIFFER, one of our oldest and most eminent Physicians, residing at New Oxford, who, after examination, pronounced it a Remedy which would not fail to show its salutary effects, when properly administered, in cases of Dyspepsia, springing from old age and debilitating effects of serious inward diseases—weakening, and at last destroying the nervous power of the stomach itself—and therefore entitling it to be emphatically called "The Great Invigorator."

Dr. W. J. McCLURE, another prominent Physician of New Oxford, thus gives his opinion:

NEW OXFORD, Dec. 30, 1868.

MR. JOHN BUSBEY.

Dear Sir:—At your request I have examined "The Great Invigorator," prepared by you, and the formula from which it is prepared. It is composed of some of the most powerful vegetable tonics and most pleasant aromatics known to our profession, and I have no hesitancy in recommending it in Chronic cases of Dyspepsia, and in all cases of Indigestion resulting from debility of the Stomach. Believing that, if properly used, it will be of incalculable benefit to the suffering of our race, I subscribe myself,

Yours, very respectfully,

J. H. SHIREMAN'S REAPERS & MOWERS.

HAVING been agent for this machine last season, I also offer it to the farmer this season. It is well known, having taken the premium at the Bendersville Fair, also at the Gettysburg Mowing Match over seven others, which were considered splendid machines, and likewise at the Dillsburg Mowing Match. Having concluded not to offer any machine that will not give entire satisfaction, I have refused agencies of several other machines, and now offer this one as

THE GREAT MACHINE OF THE SEASON.

Having tried one myself, I know exactly what it will do. I could refer you to scores of farmers who have purchased machines of me, who are highly pleased and say this is the only machine they would use.

Extras always on hand, and repairing done here at my place. This is a great consideration—the machine can be repaired at home immediately, and with much less cost.

Another great saving is the BINDER which is attached to this celebrated Reaper and Mower. It has been thoroughly tried, and given entire satisfaction—requiring no harvest hand except a driver. This Binder can also be attached to the Reapers which have been sold; but cannot be attached to any other machine except Shireman's.

A Word to the Wise!

HIGHLY IMPORTANT TO FARMERS!

Renner's Chemical Fertilizer!

THE importance of a quick, active and durable Fertilizer, adapted to the soil of our county, is acknowledged by all Farmers. Having satisfied myself, after long study and careful experiment, that F. C. RENNER'S surpasses all others in adaptedness to all kinds of soil, I have purchased the right for Adams county, and am prepared to fill orders for it promptly and on reasonable terms. It is no humbug, but

Chemical Fertilizer

HAS BEEN SUCCESSFULLY TRIED

by a number of our Farmers, and is admitted by all who have it to be the best in the market, and the cheapest. I am prepared to furnish this Fertilizer in any quantity, and will deliver

In any town or village in the County, when ordered in not less quantity than a TON. I manufacture it for sale at $50 per ton without bags, or $55 in bags. This fertilizer is composed of the best fertilizing chemicals that can be had. I use no oil of vitriol; it does not contain any ammonia, therefore I do not use it. Neither do I use lime nor ashes.

THE OBJECT OF THE CHEMICAL FERTILIZER

is to introduce a fertilizer that will last for a series of crops—not only for one. It contains sufficient animal matter to mature the grain and make it ripen early, while the ammonia forces the growth. I expect to manufacture a large supply this winter for the spring crops, and therefore invite farmers and the public generally to give it a trial on all kinds of Grains and Vegetables.

CAUTION.—I hereby give notice that Farm Rights hereafter sold, unless signed by me, are infringements on my Right, and will be prosecuted and dealt with according to law, from which there is no appeal.

Coe's Column.

COE'S COUGH BALSAM!

This long tried and popular Remedy is again called to the attention of the public. As often as the year rolls around, the proprietors annually make their bow to the people, and remind them that amongst the many things required for the health, comfort and sustenance of the family through the long and tedious months of winter, Coe's Cough Balsam should not be forgotten. For years it has been a household medicine—and mothers anxious for the safety of their children, and all who suffer from any disease of the throat, chest and lungs, cannot afford to be without it. In addition to the ordinary four ounce so long in the market, we now furnish our mammoth family size bottles, which will, in common with the other size, be found at all Drug Stores.

FOR CROUP,

The Balsam will be found invaluable, and may always be relied upon in the most extreme cases.

WHOOPING COUGH.

The testimony of all who have used it for this terrible disease during the last ten years, is, that it invariably relieves and cures it.

SORE THROAT.

Keep your throat wet with the Balsam—taking little and often—and you will very soon find relief.

HARD COLDS AND COUGHS

Yield at once to a steady use of this great remedy.—It will succeed in giving relief where all other remedies have failed.

SORENESS OF THE THROAT, CHEST AND LUNGS.

Do not delay procuring and immediately taking Coe's Cough Balsam, when troubled with any of the above named difficulties. They are all premonitory symptoms of Consumption, and if not arrested, will sooner or later sweep you away into the valley of shadows from which none can ever return.

IN CONSUMPTION,

Many a care-worn sufferer has found relief and today rejoices that her life has been made easy and prolonged by the use of Coe's Cough Balsam.

IN SHORT,

The people know the article, and it needs no comment from us. It is for sale by every Druggist and Dealer in Medicines in the United States.

THE ATTENTION of the PEOPLE

IS CALLED TO THE

World's Great Remedy,

Coe's Dyspepsia Cure.

This preparation is pronounced by Dyspeptics as the only known remedy that will surely cure that aggravating and fatal malady. For years it swept on its fearful tide, carrying before it to an untimely grave, its millions of sufferers.

Coe's Dyspepsia Cure has come to the Rescue.

Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Sourness or Acidity of Stomach, Rising of Food, Flatulency, Lassitude, Weariness, finally terminating in Deat

Are as surely cured by this potent remedy, as the patient takes it. Although but five years before the people, what is the verdict of the masses? Hear what Lester Sexton, of Milwaukee, says:

[From LESTER SEXTON, of Milwaukee.]

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Jan. 24, 1866.

MESSRS. C. G. CLARK & Co., New Haven, Conn.

Both myself and wife have used Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, and it has proved PERFECTLY satisfactory as a Remedy. I have NO hesitation in saying that we have received GREAT BENEFIT from its use.

Very Respectfully,
(Signed) LESTER SEXTON.

A GREAT BLESSING.

[From Rev. L. F. WARD, Avon, Lorain Co., O.]

Messrs. Strong & Armstrong, Druggists, Cleveland.

Gentlemen:—It gives me great pleasure to state that my wife has derived great benefit from the use of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. She has been for a number of years greatly troubled with Dyspepsia, accompanied by violent paroxysms of constipation which so prostrated her that she was all the while, for months, unable to do anything. She took, at your instance, Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, and has derived GREAT BENEFIT FROM IT, and is now comparatively well. She regards this medicine as a great blessing.

Truly yours,
Jan. 13, 1868. L. F. WARD.

CLERGYMEN.

The Rev. ISAAC AIKEN, of Allegheny, testifies that it has cured him, after all other remedies had failed.

DRUGGISTS.

Any druggist in the country will tell you, if you take the trouble to enquire, that every one that buys a bottle of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure from them, speaks in the most unqualified praise of its great medicinal virtues.

Coe's Dyspepsia Cure

Wi be found invaluable in all cases of Diarrhea, Dysentery, Colic, Summer Complaints, Griping and in fact every disordered condition of the stomach.
